

How to claim the BP CD & Activate online access to the British Pharmacopoeia website

1. ID Code

On the inside front cover of Volume 1 of the British Pharmacopoeia, there is a sticker and it has an ID code on it. You need this to claim your cd and activate your online access.

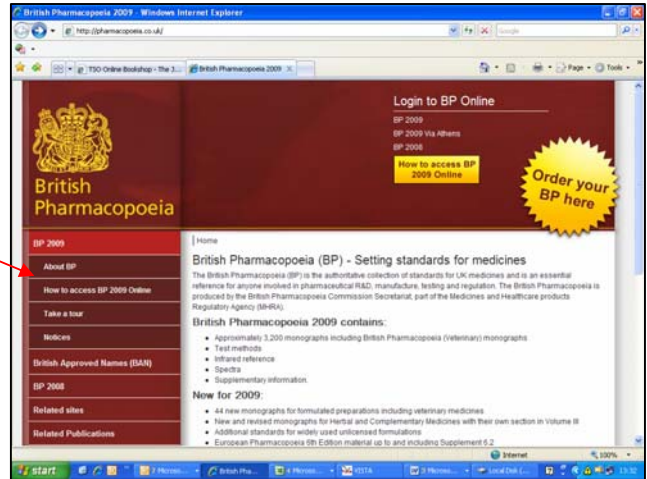

2. Visit the website

You can send us the code quickly and easily by filling out the form online at the British Pharmacopoeia website.

Simply go to <http://pharmacopoeia.co.uk/> and click on 'How to access BP 2009 online'

It will tell you that you must register the code and then takes you to a page where an online form is hosted.

Follow the link that says 'Register for Single User Access' and you will be taken to the form.

3. Fill out the form

Fill out the form making sure you complete all of the required fields (marked with *) including your address so TSO knows where to send your CD.

Where it says 'Source of Purchase' type in 'reseller'.

Where it says 'Product ID', type in your ID code you found on the inside front cover of volume 1.

To ensure you are sent a copy of the CD tick the box that says 'Send me the BP 2009 CD-ROM'

When you have finished completing the form, click 'Submit'.

Our customer services staff will then be notified of your request and will send you a CD through the post and email you with a user name and password to access the online edition of BP 2009.
